Business Torts

The attorneys at Thorpe Shwer routinely handle complex business tort litigation for clients of all sizes in both state and federal courts throughout the country. Business torts can involve any number of non-contractual claims including fraudulent misrepresentations, fraudulent transfers, breach of fiduciary duties, contract interference, unfair competition, trade secret misappropriation, business disparagement, and other intentional torts in business relationships. These types of claims have the potential to damage important business relationships and significantly harm a business's economic interests. Our attorneys work aggressively to resolve these issues advantageously for our clients so they can focus on running their companies and maintaining their competitive edge.
