

Large Loss Property Subrogation

The attorneys at Thorpe Shwer are well-respected for their ability to evaluate and prosecute large loss property subrogation claims. Our team has worked with numerous insurance carriers to handle issues related to property subrogation arising out of fires, floods, or theft. In these situations we often get involved immediately after the loss, assisting investigators with determinations regarding the origin and cause of the event at issue. We take quick action to preserve key evidence, obtain early witness statements, coordinate experts, and effectively and efficiently assess the subrogation potential. If the loss warrants prosecution of the subrogation claims, our attorneys have experience pursuing the appropriate parties for product defects, system failures, maintenance and installation failures and other issues.
