

Liquor Liability Claims

Our attorneys have substantial experience representing bars, restaurants, hotels, resorts, social hosts, and other establishments against liquor liability claims, including dram shop cases and social-host cases. We understand both the standard tort issues that accompany these matters, as well as the scientific approach that is required to successfully assess issues related to alleged impairment and the ability to recognize that impairment. Our attorneys also appreciate the critical role that training and policies play in these claims and work with entities across the hospitality industry to develop procedures that prevent litigation and assist with the defense when litigation is unavoidable.
